

INCLUDES

- ✓ Course framework
- ✓ Instructional section
- ✓ Sample exam questions

AP[®] Comparative Government and Politics

COURSE AND EXAM DESCRIPTION

Effective
Fall 2020

Sample Exam Questions

The sample exam questions that follow illustrate the relationship between the course framework and the AP Comparative Government and Politics Exam and serve as examples of the types of questions that appear on the exam. After the sample questions is a table that shows to which skill, learning objective(s), and unit each question relates. The table also provides the answers to the multiple-choice questions.

Section I: Multiple-Choice

1. If studies demonstrate that countries with higher per capita GDP are more democratic than countries with lower per capita GDP, then the relationship between per capita GDP and democracy is
 - (A) causal
 - (B) correlated
 - (C) normative
 - (D) qualitative
2. Which of the following variables is the best measure of living standards in a country?
 - (A) Gross domestic product (GDP)
 - (B) Per capita gross domestic product
 - (C) Freedom House political rights score
 - (D) Human Development Index (HDI)
3. Which of the following best captures why Nigeria has experienced more coups than Mexico has since 1960?
 - (A) Mexico's economy is more dependent upon the export of natural resources than Nigeria's economy is, so outside corporations and governments take a greater interest in Mexico's stability.
 - (B) Nigeria features sharper ethnic and religious divides than Mexico does, provoking conflict between groups for control of the central government, which has permitted the military to intervene.
 - (C) Nigeria's population is much larger than Mexico's population, providing more opportunities for conflict and a greater need for a powerful military.
 - (D) Mexico's military has historically been a more powerful actor in domestic politics than Nigeria's military has, and it has used its influence to ensure stability.

4. Which of the following pairs of countries have presidential systems?
- (A) Nigeria and Mexico
 - (B) Mexico and Iran
 - (C) China and the United Kingdom
 - (D) The United Kingdom and Russia
5. Which of the following statements about the role and function of executives in each country is most accurate?
- (A) The British monarch and the Iranian supreme leader are both largely ceremonial positions.
 - (B) The Nigerian president conducts foreign policy, whereas the Russian president relies on the prime minister for foreign policy.
 - (C) Iran has a supreme leader instead of a president, whereas Russia has a president and a prime minister who serve as equals.
 - (D) The Chinese president and the Nigerian president are both commanders in chief of the armed forces.
6. Which of the following describes an accurate difference between parliamentary and presidential systems?
- (A) Parliamentary systems have better rule of law than presidential systems.
 - (B) Parliamentary systems have fewer institutional obstacles to enact policy.
 - (C) Parliamentary systems are unitary, whereas presidential systems are federal.
 - (D) Parliamentary systems have more political parties than presidential systems do.
7. Which of the following accurately compares the status of civil liberties and civil rights in democratic and authoritarian regimes?
- (A) Only democratic regimes encourage elections.
 - (B) Only authoritarian regimes place any restrictions on the media.
 - (C) Only authoritarian regimes restrict citizen access to information about government policy making.
 - (D) Only democratic regimes encourage citizen control of the political agenda by granting civil liberties.
8. Which of the following explains how civil society interacts with politics in both Nigeria and Mexico?
- (A) Nigeria and Mexico both totally repress civil society, which undermines democracy by reducing individual freedoms.
 - (B) Nigeria and Mexico both suffer from a corporatist structure that undermines the power of civil society.
 - (C) Nigeria and Mexico both benefit from an increasingly active civil society, much of which focuses on reducing corruption.
 - (D) Nigeria and Mexico both have civil societies deeply rooted in their long histories of democracy.

9. Which of the following describes contrasting political ideologies?
- (A) In Mexico, the government is limited to the same rules as its citizens, whereas in Russia the government uses the law to reinforce the authority of the state.
 - (B) In Iran, the government is limited to the same rules as its citizens, whereas in Nigeria the government uses the law to reinforce the authority of the state.
 - (C) In China, citizens value rule by law, whereas in Iran citizens value rule of law.
 - (D) In Russia, citizens value rule of law, whereas in the United Kingdom citizens value rule by law.

Questions 10 and 11 refer to the passage.

Source: Geneive Adbo and Abdalla Hendawy, “Iran’s Latest Revolution Won’t Fade Away,” Bloomberg Opinion, January 19, 2018.

As with any social uprising, the unpredictable factor when trying to gauge the longevity of this particular movement is the strength of the state. . . .

What we are witnessing in Iran now should not be viewed as an isolated outcry, but rather . . . a hybrid momentum that started in 1999 and led by students who later became involved in the Green Movement. They are belatedly joining the current unrest, which is evolving to include new social classes of people who were not at the center of previous protests.

Although this momentum has not been linear, neither were the Arab uprisings in 2011. The Iranian demonstrators’ demands—food subsidies, jobs and lower prices—are perfectly attainable if the regime re-allocates its resources from the military to the economy. The fact that it is highly unlikely to do so, coupled with the demonstrators’ resentment, could inspire more protests in the near future that may forge a broader alliance between the middle class and the working class. It is unlikely that this simmering social movement will wait another decade to rear its head.

10. Which of the following is supported by the main idea of the passage?
- (A) Demonstrators in Iran are unpredictable and unclear in their demands, which will lead them to be crushed by the government.
 - (B) The Arab uprisings in 2011 were the catalyst for the protests in Iran.
 - (C) The Iranian state could meet the demonstrators’ demands and end the uprisings but probably will not.
 - (D) Students were the largest group of protesters in Iran, and their issues were resolved in 2011.
11. Which of the following statements is an implication of the argument presented in the passage?
- (A) Because social movements lack organized hierarchy, it is difficult to meet their demands, and Iran is likely to face continued political instability.
 - (B) It is wrong to conflate the Green Movement, which was about foreign direct investment, with this most recent movement, which is about economic struggle.
 - (C) Iran has a strong state that is able to suppress opposition movements and is able to control all social media posts about political protests.
 - (D) Since the Green Movement was not successful, citizens have stopped believing that protests are an effective means of voicing frustration with the government.

12. Which of the following characteristics best fits a catch-all party?
- (A) Presenting voters with an ideological viewpoint that envisions the role of government in a consistent manner on all issues
 - (B) A singular focus on one political issue that it considers most important and in need of government attention
 - (C) A willingness to change its position on a given issue to encourage more voters to support it in any given election
 - (D) The transnational pursuit of power by presenting a consistent message to voters in multiple countries

Questions 13 and 14 refer to the chart.

Source: BBC News Asia, 2012.

13. Which of the following is accurate according to the chart?
 - (A) Between 1980 and 2040, China's actual fertility rate will rise significantly, but the estimated fertility rate would have remained stable without the one-child policy.
 - (B) China's fertility rate would have been much higher prior to 2005 without the one-child policy.
 - (C) Families were refusing to obey the one-child policy as represented by the increased fertility rates between 1990 and 2010.
 - (D) China's fertility rate will be higher in 2005 than it was in 1980.
14. Which of the following is an implication of the chart?
 - (A) A two-child policy in the 1980s would have been a more effective response to demographic pressures than the one-child policy was.
 - (B) The fertility rate in China was heavily influenced by the one-child policy, especially between 1990 and 2015.
 - (C) China's one-child policy was an effective response to demographic pressures.
 - (D) China's one-child policy was unnecessary, as the fertility rate would have declined similarly without a policy restricting fertility rates.
15. Economic liberalization policies in Mexico resulted in which of the following?
 - (A) Internal migration from the north of the country to the south
 - (B) The removal of maquiladora zones in the north
 - (C) The removal of agricultural subsidies
 - (D) The refusal to sign the North American Free Trade Agreement

Section II: Free-Response

The following are examples of the kinds of free-response questions found on the exam.

Conceptual Analysis (Free-Response Question 1 on the AP Exam)

Answer a, b, c, and d.

- (A) Define economic liberalization.
- (B) Describe a measure that a democratic or authoritarian government could use to liberalize its economy.
- (C) Explain one reason a government would choose to liberalize its economy.
- (D) Explain why a decision to introduce economic liberalization policies might affect social cleavages.

Quantitative Analysis (Free-Response Question 2 on the AP Exam)

Answer a, b, c, d, and e.

- (A) Using the data in the graph, identify the country with the highest turnout in a single year.
- (B) Using the data in the graph, describe voter turnout between 2007 and 2015 in Nigeria.
- (C) Describe political efficacy.
- (D) Using your knowledge of political efficacy and the data in the graph, explain the pattern of Iran's political turnout in 2009 and 2013.
- (E) Explain what the data illustrate about political participation in authoritarian regimes.

Comparative Analysis (Free-Response Question 3 on the AP Exam)

Compare how legislative powers can be independent or constrained by other governmental institutions in two different AP Comparative Government and Politics course countries. In your response, you should do the following.

- (A) Define legislative independence.
- (B) Explain how legislative independence is used by governmental institutions in two different AP Comparative Government and Politics course countries.
- (C) Explain why each of the two AP Comparative Government and Politics course countries described in (B) would choose to constrain legislative powers.

Argument Essay (Free-Response Question 4 on the AP Exam)

Develop an argument as to whether democratic or authoritarian regimes are better at maintaining sovereignty in a country.

Use one or more of the following course concepts in your response:

- Power
- Authority
- Legitimacy

In your response, you should do the following:

- Respond to the prompt with a defensible claim or thesis that establishes a line of reasoning using one or more of the provided course concepts.
- Support your claim with at least TWO pieces of specific and relevant evidence from one or more course countries. The evidence should be relevant to one or more of the provided course concepts.
- Use reasoning to explain why your evidence supports your claim or thesis, using one or more of the provided course concepts.
- Respond to an opposing or alternate perspective, using refutation, concession, or rebuttal.

Answer Key and Question Alignment to Course Framework

Multiple-Choice Question	Answer	Skill	Learning Objective	Unit
1	B	1.B	MPA-1.A	1
2	D	1.A	MPA-1.A	1
3	B	2.C	PAU-1.D, LEG-2.B	1
4	A	2.A	PAU-3.A	2
5	D	2.A	PAU-3.C	2
6	B	1.C	PAU-3.B	2
7	D	1.C	DEM-1.C	3
8	C	2.B	IEF-1.B	3
9	A	2.C	IEF-1.D	3
10	C	4.A	IEF-2.A	4
11	A	4.C	IEF-2.A	4
12	C	1.A	PAU-4.A	4
13	C	3.B	LEG-4.A	5
14	D	3.D	LEG-4.A	5
15	C	1.E	LEG-3.C	5

Free-Response Question	Question Type	Skill	Learning Objective	Unit
1	Conceptual Analysis	1.A, 1.B	IEF-3.C, IEF-3.D	5
2	Quantitative Analysis	1.A, 3.A, 3.B, 3.C, 3.D	DEM-1.B	3
3	Comparative Analysis	1.A, 1.E, 2.A, 2.B	PAU-3.F	2
4	Argument Essay	5.A, 5.B, 5.C, 5.D	PAU-1.D	1

The scoring information for the questions within this course and exam description, along with further exam resources, can be found on the AP Comparative Government and Politics Exam Page on AP Central.

Scoring Guidelines

Question 1: Conceptual Analysis

Answer a, b, c, and d.

- (A) Define economic liberalization.
- (B) Describe a measure that a democratic or authoritarian government could use to liberalize its economy.
- (C) Explain one reason a government would choose to liberalize its economy.
- (D) Explain why a decision to introduce economic liberalization policies might affect social cleavages.

Scoring Guideline for Question 1: Conceptual Analysis

4 points

Learning Objectives: IEF-3.C IEF 3.D

(A) Define economic liberalization

1 point

Acceptable definition:

1.A

- Economic liberalization occurs when a state reduces its economic role and embraces free market mechanisms.

(B) Describe a measure that a democratic or authoritarian government could use to liberalize their economy.

1 point

Acceptable descriptions include:

1.A

- Democratic or authoritarian governments can eliminate subsidies or tariffs to liberalize their economies.
- Democratic or authoritarian governments can privatize government-owned industries to liberalize their economies.
- Democratic or authoritarian governments can open their markets to foreign direct investment to liberalize their economies.

(C) Explain one reason why a country would choose to liberalize its economy.

1 point

Acceptable explanations include:

1.B

- A country might choose to liberalize its economy to remedy undesirable domestic circumstances, such as one of the following:
 - rising unemployment
 - reduced productivity
 - trade deficits.
- Liberalizing the economy could take pressure off of the government and satisfy its citizens.
- A country might choose to liberalize its economy due to pressure from other countries and international organizations.
- A country might choose to liberalize its economy because free trade and a liberalized economy helps to develop a middle class.

(D) Explain why a decision to introduce economic liberalization policies might affect social cleavages.

1 point

Acceptable explanations include:

1.B

- Economic liberalization policies might affect social cleavages because the economic policies often contribute to rising inequality between classes or regions.
- Economic liberalization policies might affect social cleavages because the economic policies often contribute to inequalities because a middle class develops, but so do disparities among groups (rich/poor, urban/rural)
- Economic liberalization policies might affect social cleavages because less protectionism and freer movement of goods and services may cause tensions with immigration and people looking for work.

Total for question 1

4 points

Question 2: Quantitative Analysis

Answer a, b, c, d, and e.

- (A) Using the data in the graph, identify the country with the highest turnout in a single year.
- (B) Using the data in the graph, describe voter turnout between 2007 and 2015 in Nigeria.
- (C) Describe political efficacy.
- (D) Using your knowledge of political efficacy and the data in the graph, explain the pattern of Iran's political turnout in 2009 and 2013.
- (E) Explain what the data illustrate about political participation in authoritarian regimes.

Scoring Guideline for Question 2: Quantitative Analysis

5 points

Learning Objectives: DEM-1.B

- (A) Identify the country with the highest turnout in a single year. 1 point
• Iran 3.A
-
- (B) Describe voter turnout between 2007 and 2015 in Nigeria. 1 point
Acceptable descriptions include:
• Voter turnout in Nigeria declined between 2007 and 2015.
• In 2007 voter turnout was just under 50 percent, and in 2015 turnout declined to 32 percent. 3.B
-
- (C) Describe political efficacy. 1 point
Acceptable descriptions include:
• Citizens have faith and trust in government and believe that they can influence politics. 1.A
• Citizens believe that one's vote can influence political affairs.
-
- (D) Using your knowledge of political efficacy and the data in the graph, explain the pattern of Iran's political turnout in 2009 and 2013. 1 point
Acceptable explanations include:
• In 2009 voter turnout was high because voters wanted to elect reformist Musavi to office and remove hardliner Ahmadinejad from office. 3.C
• In 2009, once the candidates were vetted, there was real political competition among candidates, with no guaranteed winner, and citizens believed their votes mattered.
• Voter turnout in 2013 was lower than in 2009 but still fairly high. It was lower than in 2009 because citizens had less faith in free and competitive elections, and this was the first presidential election since the protests of 2009.
-
- (E) Explain what the turnout data illustrate about political participation in authoritarian regimes. 1 point
Acceptable explanations include:
• Authoritarian regimes often allow citizens to participate to develop and maintain a sense of political legitimacy. 3.D
• Political participation in authoritarian regimes is often mandatory, which often means that turnout in authoritarian regimes is higher than in democratic regimes.

Total for question 2 5 points

Question 3: Comparative Analysis

Compare how legislative powers can be independent or constrained by other governmental institutions in two different AP Comparative Government and Politics course countries. In your response, you should do the following.

- (A) Define legislative independence.
- (B) Explain how legislative independence is used by governmental institutions in two different AP Comparative Government and Politics course countries.
- (C) Explain why each of the two AP Comparative Government and Politics course countries described in (B) would choose to constrain legislative powers.

Scoring Guideline for Question 3: Comparative Analysis

5 points

Learning Objectives: PAU-3.F

(A) Define legislative independence.

1 point

Acceptable definition:

1.A

- Legislative independence refers to the degree to which a legislature is free to exercise its powers without influence from other branches/institutions.

(B) Explain how legislative independence is used by government institutions in two different AP Comparative Government and Politics course countries.

2 points

1.E

Acceptable explanations include the following (max 1 point per country):

- In Iran the Majles has power over the budget, confirms and impeaches ministers, and may issue formal questions that the government must answer. The Majles uses this power to check the executive branch.
- In the United Kingdom, the legislature is fused with the executive branch, but the legislature solely is responsible for making decisions on financial bills, such as new taxes.
- During Question Time, members of the United Kingdom legislature can question the prime minister about various policies, and it uses this power to hold the prime minister accountable and open debate.
- In Nigeria, the legislature passes bills into laws, although bills still require the president's signature.
- In Nigeria, the constitution gives the legislature the power to impeach the president as well as oversight, and it uses both powers to remain independent and to check the executive branch.
- In Mexico, the constitution gives the legislature the power to impeach the president, and it uses this power to check the executive branch.

(C) Explain why each of the two AP Comparative Government and Politics course countries described in (B) would choose to constrain legislative powers.

2 points

2.A

2.B

2.C

Acceptable explanations include the following (max 1 point per country):

- The Iranian government chooses to constrain the Majles to give the Supreme Leader more power.
- The Iranian government constrains the power of the Majles to make sure that all institutions abide by theocratic rules.
- Iran's Expediency Council, which is selected by the Supreme Leader as an advisory committee to resolve disputes between the Majles and the Guardian Council, can constrain the Majles to reduce its power.
- In the United Kingdom, the legislature is constrained by elections. Legislatures constrain the power to maintain a balance of power and to maintain a separation of powers.
- In the United Kingdom, all members of the House of Commons are up for election every 5 years. This constrains lawmakers to work for their constituents.
- In Nigeria the House of Representatives is constrained by the executive branch, because the president wants to have more concentrated power.
- In Mexico the legislature is constrained by elections as a way to maintain stability and prevent corruption.

Total for question 3

5 points

Question 4: Argument Essay

Develop an argument as to whether democratic or authoritarian regimes are better at maintaining sovereignty in a country. Use one or more of the following course concepts in your response:

- Power
- Authority
- Legitimacy

In your response, you should do the following:

- Respond to the prompt with a defensible claim or thesis that establishes a line of reasoning using one or more of the provided course concepts.
- Support your claim with at least TWO pieces of specific and relevant evidence from one or more course countries. The evidence should be relevant to one or more of the provided course concepts.
- Use reasoning to explain why your evidence supports your claim or thesis, using one or more of the provided course concepts.
- Respond to an opposing or alternate perspective, using refutation, concession, or rebuttal.

Scoring Guidelines for Question 4: Argument Essay

5 points

Learning Objectives: PAU-1.D LEG-1.A LEG-1.B

Reporting Category	Scoring Criteria
Row A Claim/Thesis (0-1 points) 5.A	0 points	1 point Responds to the prompt with a defensible claim or thesis that establishes a line of reasoning.
	Decision Rules and Scoring Notes
	Responses that do not earn this point: - The intended claim or thesis only restates the prompt. - The intended claim or thesis does not make a claim that responds to the prompt.	Responses that earn this point: - The claim or thesis responds to the prompt rather than restating or rephrasing the prompt and establishes a line of reasoning. - The response must include a defensible claim or thesis that establishes a line of reasoning about whether democratic or authoritarian regimes are better at maintaining sovereignty in a country, using one or more of the provided course concepts: power; authority; or legitimacy.
	Examples that do not earn this point: Restates the prompt "Democratic regimes are better at maintaining sovereignty in a country." "Authoritarian regimes are better at maintaining sovereignty in a country." Does not respond to the prompt "Democratic regimes maintain sovereignty by maintaining government legitimacy." "Authoritarian regimes maintain sovereignty through unchecked powers."	Examples that earn this point: "Democratic regimes are better at maintaining sovereignty in a country because they can do so by using less coercive power than authoritarian regimes." "Authoritarian regimes are better at maintaining sovereignty in a country because they can carry out their preferred policies and government actions without taking into account the wishes of citizens."
Additional Notes: - The claim or thesis must consist of one or more sentences that may be located anywhere in the response. - A claim or thesis that meets the criteria can be awarded the point whether or not the rest of the response successfully supports that line of reasoning.

Reporting Category	Scoring Criteria
Row B Evidence (0-2 points) 5.B	0 points	1 point Provides one piece of specific and relevant evidence from a course country relevant to one of the course concepts in the prompt.	2 points Provides two pieces of specific and relevant evidence from one or more course countries relevant to one or more of the course concepts in the prompt.
	Decision Rules and Scoring Notes
	Responses that do not earn points: - Do not provide any accurate evidence - Provide general (not specific) evidence - Provide evidence that is not relevant to the course concepts in the prompt	Responses that earn 1 or 2 points: Provide specific and relevant evidence from required course countries, relevant to the course concepts in the prompt
	Examples that do not earn points: Not specific "In democratic countries, officials must follow the rule of law." "In authoritarian countries, officials do not have to follow the rule of law." Not relevant to course concepts in the prompt "In Nigeria, the government fights corruption." "In the United Kingdom, they have a free media." "In China, the regime promotes economic growth." "In Iran and Russia, the government controls the media."	Examples of acceptable specific and relevant evidence (1 point per example, max 2): "In the United Kingdom, Mexico, and Nigeria, the government maintains sovereignty through the legitimacy of the citizens." "In the United Kingdom, government officials follow the rules, law, and regulations, which gives the government authority and allows it to maintain sovereignty." "In Mexico and Nigeria, government officials follow the rules and laws set forth in the constitution, which gives the government authority and allows it to maintain sovereignty." "In authoritarian regimes such as China, the state uses coercive power to maintain sovereignty and does not require the consent of citizens." "In China, the Communist Party maintains sovereignty and has complete control over transitions of power and transitions from one government to the next." "Iran uses its armed forces to maintain international and domestic sovereignty, which allows the Supreme Leader to maintain control of the population." "In democratic countries like the United Kingdom and Nigeria, government officials follow the rules and regulations that the constitution provides, which is a source of their authority."
	Additional Notes Explanations of the relationship between the evidence and the claim or thesis are not required to earn points in Row B.

Reporting Category	Scoring Criteria
Row C Reasoning (0-1 points) 5.C	0 points	1 point Explains how or why the evidence supports the claim or thesis
	Decision Rules and Scoring Notes
	Responses that do not earn this point: • Include evidence but offer no reasoning to connect the evidence to the claim or thesis • Restate the prompt without explaining how the evidence supports the claim or thesis	Responses that earn this point: • Must explain the relationship between the evidence provided and the claim or thesis
		Examples of reasoning that explain how evidence supports the claim or thesis: • "Democratic regimes are better at maintaining sovereignty by maintaining high levels of legitimacy by acting on citizen input through representative officials." • "As long as the governments follow democratic procedures and written rules of constitutions, they do not need to use coercive power to maintain sovereignty." • "Authoritarian regimes are better at maintaining sovereignty because they can act more efficiently through the use of coercive power and thus quickly implement policies and make important decisions."
	Additional Notes: • To earn this point, the response must have a defensible claim or thesis (earned the point in Row A). • The explanation of the relationship between one piece of evidence and the claim or thesis is sufficient to earn this point.

Reporting Category	Scoring Criteria
Row D Responds to Alternate Perspectives (0-1 points) 5.D	0 points	1 point Responds to an opposing or alternate perspective using refutation, concession, or rebuttal
	Decision Rules and Scoring Notes
	Responses that do not earn this point: - Restate the opposite of the claim or thesis - May identify an alternate perspective but do not refute, concede, or rebut that perspective to the provided claim or thesis Examples of responses that do not earn the point: Restates the opposite of the claim or thesis "Although some argue that democratic regimes are better at maintaining sovereignty, they are wrong because it is clear that authoritarian regimes are more effective." Identifies an alternate perspective but does not refute, concede, or rebut that perspective "There are some who argue that authoritarian regimes are more effective at maintaining sovereignty because they say that authoritarian regimes have more control over the people and thus can more easily maintain their rule."	Responses that earn this point: - Must describe an alternate perspective AND refute, concede, or rebut that perspective Examples of acceptable responses to an alternate perspective may include: "Although democratic regimes are good at maintaining sovereignty in a country, authoritarian regimes may be just as effective at maintaining sovereignty. Authoritarian regimes can maintain sovereignty without consulting representatives or citizens and can make difficult decisions for the good of the country. Therefore, authoritarian regimes can be better at maintaining sovereignty." "Although democratic regimes are good at maintaining sovereignty in a country, there are potential problems. Democratic regimes have to incorporate citizen input into decision making, which can lead to counterproductive policies or decisions that are not necessarily good for democracy." "Although authoritarian regimes are good at maintaining sovereignty, democratic regimes can also be effective at maintaining sovereignty. Governing with the consent of the people, democratic regimes are good at maintaining sovereignty by maintaining government legitimacy. Having a legitimate and democratic government can be very efficient for maintaining sovereignty."
	Additional Notes - To earn this point, the response must have a defensible claim or thesis (earned the point in Row A). - Responses that demonstrate an incorrect understanding of the alternate perspective do not earn this point.	